NATIONAL REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR PRESIDENT: RUTHERFORD B. HAYES, of Ohio.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT:

WILLIAM A. WHEELER, of New York.

But two weeks to election.

WHATEVER is done to save the country must be done within the next two weeks.

THE momentous questions involved in the pending political contest should induce every Republican to devote his whole time and energy to the canvass while opportunity is sflorded. While the success of the Republican cause is measurably certain, the moral effect of an overwhelming victory is worth the earnest effort of every true lover of his country.

JUDGE McClune, of Arkansas, has written an open letter to the Hon. Zach Chandler upon the proper canvass in the Southern States. It is too long to reproduce, but these are parts of it that are most worthy of consideration. Speaking of the use of troops to scure a fair election, Judge McClure says:

There are not troops enough in Mississippl and Louisiana, nor in the United States army, to secure a free, full and fair election in any of the States named. I know that there are Republicans, not only at the South, who honestly believe that the remedy for Demo-cratic violence at the South lies in and through the use of the United States army. I am not now, and never have, belonged to that class."

This is absolutely true. Public opinion in the North is the only thing that can secure a fair show at elections for the Republicans of the South. Troops will not be needed to suppress violence in the South if the people of the North will put the stamp of their disapproval upon such acts. Instead of doing this they have virtually upheld the men who commit the outrage of depriving American citizens of the right of franchise. When this is corrected no troops will be needed to protect Southern voters. But to continue our extracts:

"The great bulk of the Northern people almost irrespective of party, are laboring under the delusion to-day that the violence which is resorted to in South Carolina, Missis, sippi and Louisiana, arises from a desire, en the part of the good people of the State to free themselves from a lot of thieves and adventurers who were fastened on the State governments of the South by the reconstruction acts of Congress and the Federal army. The Northern mind has been educated to believe that the object in sending troops to the South is not so much to keep down disorder and violence, as it is to coerce the negro into voting the Republican ticket. An impression seems to have been created at the North that if ther were no Federal interference the negro would soon join with the so-called better element of society, and, in a short time, thus rid themselves, peacefully, of the present cause of con

It is true that too many people in the North believe as Judge McClure says. The truth is, that it is the effort of the old rebel-Democracy to drive loval men from power. to reinstate themselves, and to accomplish by peaceful means what they failed to obtain by rebellion. The negroes do not need to be coerced into voting the Republican ticket. They know for whom they should vote-in whose hands their future destinies are safest, and the only coercion is that of the banditti to prevent them from voting the Republican ticket. The negroes will not vote with any but the Republican party, if they are allowed to vote as they desire. But they must be protected in this right by public opinion in the North Every word of the following is true:

"The Democrats of the South, by a long and persistent use of the Associated Press agents, have produced the impression at the North that there is no veracity at the South save such as is found in the ranks and among the mem bers of the Democratic party. If you will ex-amine any one of the many reports relating to the different disturbances in the South, made by Republican members of Congress, you will not fall to observe that the testimony of a Re publican, no matter what his standing or posi-tion may be, is not regarded as being wholly reliable unless it is corroborated and vouched for by a Democrat. I do not complain of this; I only mention it as a self-evident fact, to show the truth of what I state, and the extent to which the minds of our friends, or rather the minds of those who ought to be our friends, have been educated. Not long since Mr. Bout-well, as chairman of the Committee on Outrages in Mississippi, made a report, in which is portrayed the violence which was resorted to by Democrats to carry the election in that State one year ago. The conclusion at which the committee arrived is fully supported by the testimony. Less crimes and less violence on the part of the Democratic party in Kansas than was committed in Mississippi resulted in hurling the Democratic party from power; yet the recital of them by Mr. Boutwell's committee has not even created a ripple on the placid minds of those men who went crazy over the wrongs of Kansas or wept at the untimely tak-ing off of John Brown." Federal bayonets will not correct this state of affairs, and Judge McClure gives the proper remedy when he says :

"What the people of the South, and espe-cially what the Republican portion of it wants is the adoption of some course which will result in conveying to the people of the North the true reason of the periodical spasms of violence and bloodshed, and the objects and purposes intended to be advanced. This can only be done in one way. The outbreaks our periodically, and the causes which lead them are well known. The trouble with us is that we have no one the North will believe by which they can be proven; for to-day a majority of the people of the North accept the unsupported statement of any Democrat at the South, who has assassinated a carpet-bas ger or negro rather than the sworn statems of any Republican in the State. A prete is made by Southern Democrats generally, that they have no objection to the negro, or any one else, acting with the Republican party, if they were led by such men as are leaders of the party of the North. The Democrats of the South, almost without exception, attach, when talking with Northern Republican, the objection to the men, and not the principles of the party. This is not true. The objection is as much to the principles of the party as to the men who advocate them, for it is out of the advocacy of the one that grows the hatred to the other. All Republicans are, in point of fact, hated alike by the Democrats of the South, the only distinction being that the one is feared and the other is not. The Southern Republican in South Carolina, Louisiana and Mississippi, whenever he attempts to speak, is suppessed and his meetings broken up. This is done with impunity, and no man's hand or voice at the North is raised against it."

Here is the true remedy for the out breaks in the South; but would the people of the North believe the speakers any more than they do the reports of Republic can committees? It is to be hoped they would, and so Judge McClure seems to think, for he savs:

"It is my opinion that if prominent Northern Republican speakers were at once sent and Mississippi, and kept there until after the election, that the reign of terror and intimida-tion which now exists there would be removed, and that the Democrats would not dare to in-terpose any obstacle to a full, free and fair discussion. If this be done, I think those States can be carried for Hayes and Wheeler. If it be left to the Republicans of those States and such Federal troops as may be sent there, they will be lost to the Republican

We commend these extracts to the perusal of our readers, for they are the opinions of an experienced politician, who has lived at the South ever since the close of the war, and are entitled to consideration.

A card printed by Col. George H. Butler in the NATIONAL REPUBLICAN not long ago charged that Moses Flanigan, deceased, confessed on his death-bed to a certain gentleman in New York that he (Flanigan) aided in the forgery of the will of Senator Broderick, of California, from which George Wilkes derived some benefit. The New York gentleman referred to explicitly denies that Flanigan ever made such a confession to him under any circumstances whatever.

EDITORIAL POSTSCRIPT. Anothershocking tragedy, in which a mana led prisoner beat out the brains of his guard in a compartment-ear, is recorded this morning. The frequency of these occurrences in European railway-cars ought to, it would seem, induce the adoption there of the American style of cars, where the presence of others in the cars would render such deeds impossible. Why they persist in keeping up the compartment-cars is certainly a mystery.

With the advent of United States troops in South Carolina the rifle clubs are disbanded, the campaign becomes orderly, Wade Hampton, albeit with much bombast and mock heroism, counsels submission to authority, even to baring their breasts to receive the fatal shot should the Federal troops take a notion to nurder them in cold blood. No one is hurt, and peace reigns on all sides. Had the country in 1860 had a President with the courage to take similar prompt measures to preserve the peace, the four years of terrible suffering on all sides and in every section might have been avoided, millions of lives saved, an enormous debt remained uncontracted, and the United States, with an immensely increased population, have been to-day the most wealthy and powerful nation on the globe.

Doubts having been expressed as to the present status of the new State of Colorado, it well to remark that Colorado is entitled to two full-fledged United States Senators and one Representative in this Congress, and is also entitled to three votes in the Electoral College. It is expected that the two Senators will be chosen in due time, and that they and the Representative lately elected will take their seats in Congress in December next. In this connection it may be observed that, in the event of the election of the next President and Vice President by the House of Representatives, in the contingency pointed out by the Constitution, the young State of Colorado will be entitled the same number of votes-oneas the old and large States of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, &c.
